The following admirable lines from the pen of an American Lady, a member of the Society of to turn over a new leaf in my domestic affairs." Friends, appeared some years ago in the Sunday Times newspaper. We are told that the poem was found in the house of a tippling Gardener, whom it had the happy effect of winning from the nts of dissipation to his own domestic hearth:

Thou took me. William, when a girl. Unto thy home and heart, To bear in all thy after fate A fond and faithful part : And tell me, have I ever tried That duty to forege, Or plued there was not joy for me When thou wort sunk in wo!

No I would rather share thy tear. Than any other's glee, For the' thou art nothing to the world, Thou art all the world to me: Thou mak'st a palace of my shed, This rough-hewn branch a throne; There's sunlight for me in thy smiles, And music in thy tone.

I look upon thee when thou sleen'st. My eyes with tears grow dim, I cry, oh Parent of the poor, Look down from heaven on him ; Behold his toil from day to day, Exhausting strength and soul; O, look with mercy on him, Lord, For thou can'st make him whole.

And when a last relieving sleep Has on my eye-lids smiled, How oft are they forbade to close In slumber by our child? I take the little murmurer That spoils my span of rest, And feel it as a part of thee I lull upon my breast.

There's only one return I crave, I may not need it long, And it may soothe thee when I'm where The wretched feel no wrong; I ask not for a kinder tone, For thou wert ever kind; I ask not for less frugal fare, My fare I do not mind.

I ask not for aftire more gay-If such as I have got Suffice to make me fair to thee. For more I murmur not. But I would ask some share of hours That thou on clubs bestow, Of knowledge which thou prize so much, Might I not something know.

Subtract from meetings amongst men Each eve an hour for me : Make me companion of thy soul, As I may safely be. If thou wilt read I'll sit and work : Then think when thou art away; Less tedious I shall find the times, Dear William, if thou stay.

A meet companion soon I'll be For e'en thy studious hours, And teacher of those little ones We call our cottage flowers; And if we be not rich and great, We may be wise and kind, And as my heart can warm thy heart, So may my mind thy mind.

The Girl that would be Married.

A Short. Good. and True Story. Mr. Watts had, by industry and economy, accudated a large property. He was a man of rather superior mind and acquirements, but unfortunately became addicted to habits of intemperance. Ague and Fever, or Chills

Are caused by the miasmic effluvia arising from marshes, decayed vegetations, and low, damp smations. In Fever and Ague, the I orest Wine and Pills are a sovereign temedy. When they have been taken agreeably to the directions, we have never known them to fail in affecting a complete cure. In the first place, take a large dose of the Forest pills in time, that their operations may allowed before the rature chill. The stomach being now subside before the return chill. The stomach being nov well eleansed take three or four large doses of the Wine, at intervals of half an hour commencing shout two hours before the period for the chill to return. This breaks the ague, after which the wine should be continued in small doses, to restore strength. See full directions around the True beauty and loveliness accompany the highest per-fection of Lealth, which again invariably follows the parest state of the blood. What artificial appendages equal that vivid expression of countenance which emanates from blooming health? What paints con pare with the crimson colored blood costing its brilliant resente b through the tresported texture of the skin? What charms are more captivating than those of nature, in her highest perfection of health! Let Dr. Halsey's Pose to Wine, supply the place of all cometies. The use of this excellent wine for a short time, creates pure, rich hood, which, coursing through the veins, penetrates the mi-nutest fibers that verge town dathe surface of the skin, causing all unhea they pumptes and blotches to di a spear imparting a vivid rosy color to the skin, and brilliant ex-
